Crew Slightly Hurt When C. P. R. Trains Wreck at Linwood

Several persons were injured near Linwood at 8 o'clock on Monday when the C. P. R. train from Goderich met the Listowel train in a head-on collision, according to reports reaching the city. The engine and one car of the Goderich train were overturned and badly smashed, members of the crew being injured. The extent of their injuries could not be learned but it is understood that they were not serious.

The other train did not leave the tracks. No passengers on either train are reported injured. Further particulars could not be secured from Linwood, the telephone lines to that village being down.

It is said that the Goderich train was supposed to have waited on a siding until the Listowel train passed. For some reason or other, it is said, this was not done and the collision resulted.

LINWOOD WINS GOOD DEBATE

The final debate in the Junior Farmers' Debate series of the County of Waterloo was held in Kitchener on Wednesday evening, March 2nd, 1921. The contesting associations were Ayr and Linwood. The subject of the debate was "Resolved that Free Trade between Canada and the United States would be in the best interests of Canada."

The affirmative was upheld by the Ayr Association and was represented by Messrs. H. S. Hallman and David Brown. Fireman Ward and Irvine Stricker represented Linwood on the negative side of the debate. The debate was keenly contested. Both sides had given the subject deep study and prepared orations worthy of any public platform. It took the judges about three-quarters of an hour to come to a decision. They finally awarded the Linwood Association the debate by a very small margin. The judges were James A. Henderson, Blair; J. C. McKay, Linwood; and Allen Shantz, Waterloo. The Kitchener Association entertained the debaters and also supplied the programme for the evening. Many thanks is due to this association for their kind hospitality.

A goodly number of junior farmers, together with their friends from both Ayr and Linwood, together with a large crowd from Kitchener were present at this meeting.

Four associations have taken part in this series. New Hamburg debated Linwood while Kitchener debated Ayr. Linwood and Ayr being the winners of the first series came together for the final debate. The Linwood Association deserves special credit for the way they acquitted themselves as this is a new association just formed at the completion of the month's course in Agriculture during the present winter.
