MR. REINER'S LETTER.

Under date of May 8th, Mr. J. G. Reiner wrote us an interesting review of his trip from Sudbury to Spokane, where he now is. From the letter we clip the following:

From Sudbury to Rat Portage, a distance of about 1000 miles, the whole country along the road appears useless for agricultural purposes, there being neither timber or anything else of value except probably mineral lands as yet undeveloped. The road around Lake Superior appears to the traveller a rough and dangerous one; the upper end of the lake was still considerably covered with ice, as were also many of the small lakes which abound in this section all along to Rat Portage. They seem to hang together like a continuous chain between the rocks. Past Rat Portage and on towards Winnipeg comes another long stretch of rocky country with a continuous chain of small lakes, but the country gradually becomes more settled as you approach Winnipeg; however, ending here had not been begun as the land was still entirely too wet, the weather being cold and rainy.

After spending a day at Winnipeg I resumed my trip on Sunday evening toward Regina. No spring farming operations had been commenced between these points on account of the extreme wet and snow. Regina is a live, thriving western town of about 2700 population, surrounded by a fairly good agricultural country where seeding is beginning. Farther along is Moosejaw, about one-third smaller than Regina, and in a farming section that suited me better than Manitoba. Some little distance west from this last named place we passed over a very fine rolling prairie section, which is, however, not much use except for ranching purposes as it is too dry. This comprises a belt of land from 500 to 700 miles wide, running north from Wyoming. About the Central part of Alberta a change for the better takes place, as the north-western part of Alberta is really a fine agricultural country. Travelling still westward we passed Medicine Hat, pop. 1000, and from there to Fort McLeod, pop. 600—the junction of the Crow's Nest Pass and C. P. R. I observed that cattle ranching is here the leading industry. Then we started towards the glowing mountains and Crow's Nest Pass country where the romantic scenery of forest cannot fail to delight the heart, although at times it is also awe-inspiring as the railroad runs along some perilous precipice. Coal and timber abound here in unlimited quantities, and this section is settling up fast, and new towns are springing up everywhere like mushrooms. Next we struck the mountains and were surrounded by snow for hundreds of miles until we reached Kootenay Landing, where we took the steamer to Nelson, B. C. This water trip of about fifty miles (during which we passed through narrow lakes with snow-clad mountains on each side) was the pleasantest part of my journey thus far.

Nelson is a very lively mining town of about 6000 population, nestling between the mountains. Here I was compelled to remain over until next day, and while here I met James Armstrong, V. S., formerly of Wellesley, and a son of Robert Armstrong, of Wellesley township. He extended to me the most cordial hospitality. Next morning I resumed my journey (with Mr. Armstrong as travelling companion as far as Northport) through the well known Columbia river valley district, which was a regular paradise compared with what I had met up to this point. Here everything in nature indicated spring, the trees were all in blossom, the flowers in full bloom, birds warbling and everything so beautiful that I felt almost tempted to become a subject of Uncle Sam at once as I neared my destination—Spokane—where I arrived safely and in good health, having had a most enjoyable trip.

MILLBANK.

May 11th, 1902.
Miss Birde and her daughter, Barbara, spent Sunday with their friend, Mr. Wm. Gibson.

Mr. Thos. Sharpe paid a flying visit to friends in town last Saturday.

Quite a number from here attended the Newton-Milverton football match in the former place on Saturday evening. It was quite interesting but neither side was able to score.

Miss Ethel Strahan and her brother, Howard, of Brussels, spent a few days of this week in our burg.

Miss Sarah McKee is very low at present.

Miss Olive Greave and Mr. T. Ross, of Newton, were the guests of friends in town on Saturday.

Miss Lizzie Sutor is home again after spending a number of weeks with friends in Woodstock.

Mr. Alex. Frame, of Crosshill, spent Sunday with his cousin, Mr. Wm. Mitchell.

DOERING'S CORNERS.

May 10th, 1902.
Miss Annie Mallou was united in marriage to Mr. Wm. Robinson, of Stratford, last week. The young couple will make their home in the Classic City.

Miss Tena Hammer was in Breslau on Sunday, a guest at Mr. L. Zoeger's.

The masons are now at work at Mr. Wogulski's, and the foundation is nearly finished. Mr. Geo. Fink, of Topping, has the contract, and is making an excellent job.

The Sunday School convention at Phillipsburg last Sunday was well attended, there being about 100 teachers present from Baden Hamburg, Wellesley, Gadsdill, North Easthope, St. Agatha and Sebastopol. Rev. Mr. Hohn preached a very able sermon in the forenoon to a large concourse. After dinner the dinner the church was again filled,

Rev. F. Veit, of Sebastopol, conducting the session. Rev. Messrs. Loeb and Miller, of New Hamburg, were also present. The children's mission collection amounted to a little over $75.

Mr. Lorentz Schmidt had the misfortune to lose a fine brood sow and a steer last week.

Mr. Geo. Clink, Tavistock, and Mrs. Sam'l Lemp, New Hamburg, were visiting at Mr. C. Lemp's.

Mr. Edw. Heldman cut his foot with the adze last Friday, and will not be able to work for a few days.

CROSSHILL

May 19th, 1902.
Messrs. J. T. Wilford, London, and Hugh Frame, Waterloo, have been staying here a week or so attending to their respective properties.

Mr. Joseph Querrin called on friends in the neighborhood on Sunday.

Mr. John Creignell, of Toronto, spent a few days recently with relatives here.

Miss Dickert, of Linwood, has been holidaying with her cousin, Miss Laura Foster.

Mrs. John Ernst and family, of Petersburg, has been visiting old friends in this vicinity the past week.

Mr. J. Caldwell renewed acquaintances here the other day.

Mr. Thos. Williams, of Petersburg, called on Mr. Webster's family on Saturday.

Mr. Robt. Hooy moved his family to this village last week, taking possession of the Boyd property, purchased by him some time ago. His son, John, on Wednesday joins the long list of benefactors, when he leads from the altar his fair bride, Miss Maggie, the accomplished daughter of Mr. J. Hammond.

Mr. Hy. Bickert, our popular merchant, who has been engaged in a grocery in Newmarket, sold out his stock there and returned home to his family, much to their delight. He is now ready to supply the wants of his many customers, having just received a new line of dry goods, groceries, etc. Try him.

Both candidates have held enthusiastic meetings here within the past week or two.

The C. O. F. are making preparations for holding a picnic in Cedar Park. The date will likely be set for June 27th.

A certain individual on church-going bent. Regardless of appearances and un-mindful of the time, Meandered on and on.

What happened after leaving home need not be here retold. Except that when he came back home the east was tinged with gold.

Ah, Weary Willies, take the hint— and Jogging Jimmies, too— Avoid the curtain lectures that always wait for you.

HUBERSVILLE.

May 19th, 1902.
We are sorry to learn that Mr. Geo. Spreadborough is ill in Stratford with rheumatic fever.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Miller spent a day in Berlin last week.

The masons are now busy at Mr. Wm. McKee's new house.

Mr. S. J. Miller and Miss Lennie Little, of Linwood, spent Saturday and Sunday with friends in Sebringville.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Lennox, of Baden spent Sunday with some of their old friends in this vicinity.

Mr. Alex. Miller bought a fine thoroughbred bull from Mr. A. B. Robertson, ex. M. P. P., the other day.

"Pray" as It Preys.

Very strange is the insect popularly known as the "praying mantis." Of this insect M. J. H. Fabre, a distinguished French naturalist, made a thorough study. According to him, "His long, pale green wings, like ample veils, its head upraised to heaven, its arms folded and crossed on its breast, give it a false resemblance to a nun in ecstatic devotion."

A ferocious creature it is, ever bent on carnage, the workshops of various burrowing hymenoptera being its favorite haunts, since there it is almost certain to find prey.

"Posted on some bush near the burrows," says Mr. Fabre in his account of the insect, "it waits patiently until it sees some other insect, probably a spider, returning home. By a sudden ruse of its half open wings it terrifies the approaching insect, which hesitates for a moment, and then as suddenly as a spring the toothed forearm folds back on an arm also toothed, and the insect is grasped between the blades of the double saw in the same manner as the jaws of a wolf trap close on an unfortunate wolf at the instant when it is seizing the bait. Then, without noticing the deadly machine, the mantis slowly eats its victim."

In Provence this cruel insect is known as "prego Dleou," which means "pray to God."

The Deaf Mute's Story.

"The most pathetic story I ever heard," said Senator Hoar once, "was told by Professor Gallaudet. The professor had a favorite pupil, a little deaf mute boy, exceptionally bright. Mr. Gallaudet asked him if he knew the story of George Washington and the cherry tree.

"With his clumsy fingers the little fellow said he did, and then he proceeded to repeat it. The noiseless gesticulations continued until the boy had informed the professor of the elder Washington's discovery of the mutilated tree and of his quest for the mutilator.

"When George's father asked him who backed his favorite cherry tree, signified the voiceless child, 'George put his hatchet in his left hand'—

"Stop," interrupted the professor. 'Where did you get your authority for saying he took the hatchet in his left hand?'

"Why," responded the boy, 'he needed his right hand to tell his father that he cut the tree.'"

Virus and Venom.

The difference between venom and a virus is very marked. Both are poisons and both of organic origin, but a venom is produced in secretory organs commonly called poison glands, and is introduced into the system by means especially adapted for the purpose, such as stings or fangs. On the other hand, a virus is the result of disease or putrefaction and generally possesses the property of exuding in the system into which it is introduced, the disease which produced the virus. A virus commonly produces little if any local disturbance. A venom generally causes great pain, often severe inflammation and swelling. Venom has a marked local effect. Virus causes a general disturbance of the system.

An Odd Habit Among Rooks.

Among the odd habits of rooks is the way that members of the same rookery have of intermarrying generation after generation. The males always choose their wives from among their near neighbors, and if one should be so bold as to bring home to his rookery a bride from a distance, other rooks will invariably refuse to receive her and will force the pair to build some way off. In the neighborhood of big rookeries outlying nests of this kind may always be found.

Fresh Paint Stains.

A fresh paint stain on woollen goods will disappear if rubbed against other woollen goods. For instance, if the stain is on the sleeve of a coat take that garment off and rub the paint against the other sleeve. It will disappear and leave no sign. This is easier than applying turpentine and exactly as efficacious but it must be done while the paint is still wet.

Very Legal.

"We claim that my client did not run away with the horse, as alleged. The horse was ahead of him all the time, and he simply followed the horse."

"The Prosecuting Attorney—It amounts to the same thing. He was the accessory after the fact. He is old enough to know better than to follow a bad example."

Something Like It.

"Does your son matriculate this year, Mrs. Hammond?"

"Why, really, I don't know. I ain't heard anything about matriculation, but he wrote us in his last letter that he had got vaccinated and it took terrible."

Serene Superiority.

"Mr. Loftbrock takes himself very seriously," remarked Miss Cayenne.

"In what way?"

"He asked me if I thought I could be happy with him. As if his presence could make the slightest difference one way or another!"

Got the Better of Hotel Clerk.
 "With all his faults," began Mr Fairchild, "the hotel man is a first class fellow, who will go a long way to keep his guests from shaming too much in public or from being seen by doubtful guests. I recall an instance which happened to me in New York not long ago. I had registered in the morning and, leaving my key at the hotel, came back again in the evening. Finding the night clerk on, but not on to me, I asked him, giving him my name, if I was in. Not knowing the number of my room, I decided this was the way to find out.

"He looked at me rather suspiciously. Evidently the result of his inspection was not reassuring, for, after making a bluff at feeling in my box, he replied quite stiffly:

"No, sir; Mr. Fairchild is not in. I sat down on the lounge and said calmly:

"Well, when he comes in please tell him that he is here looking for himself."

"The porter carried U clerk upstairs."

Lack of Originality.
 Says a Philadelphia physician: "The utter lack of originality in the human mind vexes me. Even the Insano are not original in their delusions and manias, but they can be divided into classes, and each class has its one little uniform and unvarying set of aberrations. The Insano cannot be other than imitative and commonplace."

Contrary.
 "Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkin, "I want you to promise that you will not lose any more money on horse races."

"I won't bet a cent."

"Now, that's just sheer contrariness. You know if you don't bet you can't win."

Don't let politics make you forget the joint stock sale at the Queen's hotel, Wellesley, on Friday, May 30th. A lot of cattle, household furniture, etc., have already been entered.

The meeting in the Opera House last evening in the interest of Mr. Breithaupt drew out a crowded house, many having come long distances to hear the famous Minister of Agriculture, Hon. John Dryden. And they were well repaid for his speech was one of the most masterly ever delivered here. Bognets were presented to the candidate and Mr. Dryden by little Cora Hammer and Ruth Schaub, the pretty little maidens being rewarded with kisses. The stage was richly dressed, while footstools, party banners, and cartoons, were plentifully displayed on the walls. The Wellesley Brass Band added much to the pleasure of the occasion by their enlivening music. Among the others who addressed the meeting were Mr. R. Y. Fish and Dr. McEachern, of Linwood; Geo. Moore and ex-Mayor Diebel, of Waterloo; Councillor Alex. McDonald and Duncan Stewart, of North Easthope; and Mr. Henry Hostettler, of Wellesley. Mr. Chas. F. Ottmann performed the duties of chairman in a most acceptable manner. The meeting closed with cheers and singing the national anthem.

Nominations today; elections next Thursday.

Heavy local showers fell in this section on Monday, this village, however, almost entirely escaping.

Quoting, base ball, foot ball and tennis are the popular amusements these evenings since the happy early closing movement began here.

Spring has now placed on nature her prettiest garments. Foliage and bloom greet the eye everywhere, and it is difficult to realize that two giant political parties are engaged in a deadly struggle to save the Province from the rain that the rule of the other fellows would be sure to cause.

A base ball match between the Baden and Wellesley boys was played here last Monday evening. It was intended to have been between the juniors, but the visitors' pitcher proved to be a strapping big fellow, and our boys refused to go on unless they got Fred Mayor and Wm. Faulhafer as a battery. This the visitors consented to, with disastrous results to themselves, the score standing 36 to 10 at the close. One of Baden's school teachers acted as umpire in a very satisfactory manner to all. Some of the young players on both teams put up a very creditable game.

CONSERVATIVE MEETING.

A political meeting will be held in the Opera House, Wellesley, on the evening of Tuesday next, May 27th, at which Dr. Lackner, the Conservative candidate, Joseph E. Seagram, M. P., and A. W. Wright, of Toronto, will be the principal speakers. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

HOOEY—HAMMOND.

On Wednesday Evening, May 21 a happy event took place at Mountain Side Farm, the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John K. Hammond, the occasion being the marriage of their oldest daughter, Miss Maggie E. to Mr. John Hooley, one of the most prosperous and amiable young men of Wellesley. Precisely at 6 o'clock the bride entered the drawing room leaning on the arm of her father. Miss McFaddin, cousin of the bride, playing the wedding march. The bridal party took their places under a beautiful arch of evergreens and blossoms. Rev. Mr. Haig, of Millbank, safely and securely tied the matrimonial knot, after which the guests, about seventy-five in number, withdrew to the spacious dining room and sat down to a most sumptuous supper, all the delicacies and luxuries of the season being furnished in liberal and elegant style. The bride was attired in a lovely dress of white organza with chiffon and applique trimmings with a wreath of white roses on her head, and carrying a lovely bouquet of flowers. The evening was spent in a very sociable manner, music, recitations and games being the chief entertainment. The presents testified to the high esteem in which the bride is held by her many friends and acquaintances. The happy couple will immediately take up their residence on lot 6, Con. 7, Wellesley, the beautiful home of the groom, where they will be "at home" to their friends after the 15th June.

Various Styles of Hairdressing.
The various styles of hairdressing under Louis XVI, were known as the cascade of St. Cloud, the windmill, the sheep and lamb, the hen and chickens, the dog and hare, the peal of bells, the milkmaid, the bob wig, the bother, the kerchief, the oriental, the Circassian, Minerva's helmet, the crescent, the enigma, the desire to please, the turned up curl, the treasurer of the age, the frivolous bather, the rat, the drunken monkey and the lover's snare, the last named consisting of a mass of curls covered with powder, particles of which, deposited on the coat or shoulders of a gentleman, indicated the previous whereabouts of the lady's head.

A Pleasant Prospect.

A young man named Mooney enlisted in the army. After he had been in India for about five months he received a pathetic letter from his parents which said that if he did not send them some money they would be forced to go to the workhouse.

The young man sat down and answered the letter as follows:

"Dear Father and Mother—Try to keep out of the workhouse for six years and seven months until I come home, and then the three of us will go in together."—London Tit-Bits.

A Literary Tea Toper.
There have been many literary tea toppers, but William Hazlitt, the writer and critic, probably surpassed every other author in the singularity and strength of his potations. Rising usually at 1 or 2 o'clock in the day, he would sit over his breakfast of exceedingly strong black tea and a toasted French roll—if he had no work on hand—for hours, silent, motionless and self absorbed as a Turk.
It was the only stimulant or luxury he ever took, and he was very fastidious about its quality, using always the most expensive kind and consuming, when he lived alone, about a pound a week. He always made the tea himself, half filling the teapot with tea, pouring boiling water on it and then almost immediately pouring it out and mingling with it a great quantity of sugar and cream.
Such a beverage must have been delicious. Indeed, Douglas Jerrold says, "there was fascination in it," but as a daily stimulant it must have been most deleterious, and he probably died after several severe attacks from a disease of the digestive organs it probably caused his death.

Phenomenal Honeymoon.
A newly married couple were on their way from Antwerp to Paris when one of their fellow passengers cut his throat with a razor in the railway carriage in which they were travelling.

Another shock awaited them in Paris. A visitor in the hotel in which they were staying was killed in the lift in their presence.

On Sunday they called on a friend living in Paris who had invited them to lunch at his house. When extending the invitation the friend observed, laughing, "You will not find any corpses with me." But when they arrived at the house their host greeted them with a request to have the lunch put off, as his servant had died that morning in a bath tub from heart disease.

This was too much for the bride, who fainted and then went into hysterics. The couple subsequently took the first train back to Antwerp—London Globe.

Fantastic Bottles.
Glass in fabric is so beautiful that even grotesque designs cannot entirely rob it of charm; hence the "fantasies in glass" come fitly into collections. Among foreign bottle curios are found Buddha bottles, dragons, sea horses, ships, gondolas, fountains, violins, whistles and lion bottles; bottles with horizontal stripes or perpendicular divisions and glass jugs with horns or whistles in the handles. American curio bottles show a wide but more practical range, expressing national localities in such shapes as cigars, pistols, monuments, eggs, boxing gloves, birds, cones, catenas, lanterns, scallops, shells, shoes, slippers, roller skates, barrels, castles, snails, lurch burk legs, cones, pyramids, figures of Uncle Sam, Santa Claus and the like.—Century.

Criticising a Portrait.
Walter Dean, Sr., once hired an artist to paint his portrait, with the stipulation that the picture would not be accepted and paid for unless it looked like himself. When the portrait was completed, it was sent to Mr. Dean, who did not recognize himself and absolutely refused to pay the painter. The painter sued, and Joe Strong, the artist, was called in to give an expert opinion.

"You see the portrait of Mr. Dean?" the lawyer asked.
"No," said Mr. Strong. "I do not."
"There it is," said the lawyer, pointing to the big canvas.
"I don't call that a portrait. I call that a map of Mr. Dean," said Mr. Strong.

Teas Easter.
"So you are going to Europe?"
"I am," answered the young man.
"Why don't you stay here in America, where there are so many opportunities to make a fortune?"
"Well, I've concluded that the other side is easier. Of course you can make a fortune if you will stay and work for it, but people are always more liberal when they are away from home. I have concluded that it is much easier to go over there and get the other Americans bring it to me."

Valuable Advice.
Young Lady—A friend of mine is engaged to a man, and she is refusing to marry her. What would you advise her to do?
Old Lawyer—Is the man wealthy?
Young Lady—No. He hasn't a shilling.
Old Lawyer—Then I'd advise her to write him a nice letter of thanks.

Spinnings.
Thorns and spinners finding their way under the skin frequently give an considerable pain. If they cannot be immediately extracted, for which purpose a new needle will be found in most cases a sufficient instrument to remove the part should be bathed with hot water. In event of inflammation the steam of hot water should be applied.

To Wash It Out.
"Yes," said the aristocrat, "I was indignant, and I wrote him that the clandestine marriage of our son to his Injuries From Carbolic Acid.

Warnings are given in a medical journal against the injury to skin and even those which may result from the long continued use of weak—say, 3, 2 1/2 or even 2 per cent—carbolic applications, especially upon peripheral portions of the body, such as the fingers. This effect, it is asserted, is due in a small measure to the action of carbolic acid upon the vasomotor system, but in the main to its destructive effect upon the red and white blood corpuscles.

This induces, partly in a mechanical and partly in a chemical way, stasis, first in the capillaries and, if the action of the drug be continued, then in the larger veins and arteries, with the result that the nutrition of the part is interfered with and the removal of the harmful substances hindered; the maceration of the epidermis caused by the acid favors evaporation, so that the gangrene is a dry one, a mummification, as it were.

Self Help in Case of Fire.
As a house is never attacked by fire at the top and bottom at once, if there is a safe and ready exit at both top and bottom very little danger to life is to be feared. It is important that all exits should be so known as to be easily found by day or night by every inmate of the house. If the clothes you have on catch fire, a blanket, rug or some such woollen article should be quickly and tightly wrapped around you. Air is thus excluded, and the fire goes out.

A small fire in a room can often be put out in the same way in preference to pouring water on it. In case of fire keep all doors shut as far as possible. If a room is full of smoke, keep low or crawl, because smoke and hot air both rise, leaving the floor comparatively clear.

Cards a Queen's Fad.
The principal hobby of the queen regent of Spain is the collecting of playing cards, says the London Daily Telegraph. She possesses a large number of curious packs, many of which have no little historical interest. One set, made of ivory, is believed to have belonged to Prince Eugene, who fought with the great Duke of Marlborough, and to have accompanied him to all his campaigns. Queen Christina also owns some exceedingly rare cards of Egyptian, Arabian, French and Spanish manufacture.

Regard For Sacred Trees.
Throughout the length and breadth of India the Hindu religion, under which Buddha resided for seven years plunged in divine thought, is dedicated to religious worship and may on no account be felled or destroyed. With more universal but not less sincere reverence do the peasants of Russia prostrate themselves before the trees which they are about to cut and deprecate the vengeance of the deities whose resting places they then proceed to destroy.

His Mental Incapacity.
The Court—So you ask divorce from this man on the ground of mental incapacity. What proof have you that he is insane?

The Woman—Who said he was insane, your honor?

The Court—Why, you say he is mentally incapable.

The Woman—Yes; incapable of understanding that I'm boss.
