EDITORIAL NOTES.

The sunshine filtered in through the dirt on the sanctum windows onto the head of the Waterloo Chronicle for a few minutes early last week, and he wrote: "The present dry weather, although somewhat warm, is hailed with delight."

Edw. VII is coronated at last He now stands pat, King high.

In the Toronto Weekly Sun "By-stander" urges Ross to call an early session of parliament to relieve the strain of the awkward political situation. He claims the fight in the election counts will be desperate and "the temptation to intrigue and corruption will be great, and a serious strain be laid on the popular confidence in the judiciary." By-stander seems to have forgotten that there was a newspaper writer named McAdara in British Columbia.

The Fruit Marks Act passed by the Dominion Parliament in 1901 is being enforced this year. It provides that the packer shall have his name and address, and the grade of the fruit, plainly marked on every barrel or closed package, and the surface fruit shall be no better than the average in the barrel or package. The penalty for violation of this is not less than 25c or more than $1 per package. The marking must be done before the fruit leaves the premises of the fruit grower.

We notice, says the Sunforth Expressor, that a good many papers are talking about there being a scrutiny of the ballots in several election trials which are anticipated in connection with protests which have been entered. Those who expect anything from this source evidently do not know the situation. The present ballot law has been in operation in Ontario for upwards of a quarter of a century, and during all that time not a single scrutiny has been completed. One was commenced a good many years ago in Lincoln, if we recollect aright, but it had to be abandoned before it was much more than well commenced, on account of the tedious nature of the proceeding and the enormous expense attending it. Each ballot has to be examined before the court and counsel on both sides have a right to indulge in argument to their heart's content on each ballot before any decision is given. It was estimated that a scrutiny of the ballots of an ordinary constituency would occupy about 5 years and cost the litigants about a quarter of a million dollars. As none of the contestants in the coming election court contests are Carnegies or Rockafellers, and as all of them expect to die some time, it is not likely that scrutinies will cut any great figure.

DISTRICT NOTES.

Milverton will celebrate labor day by holding a long list of athletic sports, etc. There will be a calisthenic procession and a game of foot ball in the morning. Bicycle races, foot ball, base ball, horse racing, and a tug of war are on the afternoon program, while a concert will take place in the evening.

North Perth and North Waterloo are this year harvesting the heaviest crops in their history.

Clinton is building a new $10,000 post office.

This is a great year for circuses in Ontario, no less than half-a-dozen of them making the rounds. The old "poem" is brought forcibly to mind:

Some old circus
Some old seats,
Some old clowns and
Some old feasts;
Some old peanuts
Some parade,
Some old light pink
Lemonade,
Some old horses,
Some old race,
Some old joy on
Every face,
Some old grabbers,
Talking trash,
Huking in our
Hard-corned cash,
Some fat lady
Loos the rounds,
Some old weight,
Four hundred pounds,
Some spectators
To behold her,
Only change we're
One year older.
