LINWOOD.

March 29th, 1904.
Miss L. Coote, of Dorking, was to town last week.

On Friday night last a fall of rain so much increased the amount of water pouring into the creek that two houses down on the flats were completely surrounded.

Mr. L. Meyer and family moved into town on Monday.

The streets are very icy at present. One young lady was unfortunately enough to fall and hurt herself on Sunday evening.

Mrs. M. Grimm, of Milverton, was in town last week.

Mr. L. Meyer's chopper is running well now, and Mr. R. Y. Fish also intends starting his up; and as Mr. T. Hackett has been chopping steadily a considerable amount of chop has been turned out by Linwood this winter.

Miss Jessie Thomas, of Bloomingdale, is visiting her uncle, Mr. R. Rowe, at the "Terrace," on Main street.

Many collars have been flooded with water the past week, especially in the east end.

Every day brings more definite tidings of the railway. All the citizens are anxious to have the snow go away so that work may be commenced.

Mr. Wm. Oakley has had great difficulty in getting to the trains this winter, and frequently he got there only to find that the trains were unable to get through. On Saturday morning the road through Hawkesville was covered with four feet of water. Linwood was a pretty wet place last week but Hawkesville must be even worse.

On account of the bad roads Rev. Mr. Remblay, the Lutheran minister, was not able to come up from Conestoga on Sunday.

Miss C. Boomer has returned from Toronto and has brought her sister, Mrs. Rutherford, back with her for a visit.

Since the storms prevented the last Linwood budget from getting through there have been several lively and interesting "ditch" parties here. Two, given by Miss Mellic Schuur and Mrs. McEachern, were especially deserving of mention.

The promotion examinations held on the 16th, 17th and 18th of March were gratifying to both teachers and pupils.

Mr. Edmunds is sorry that he is about to lose the services of Mr. A. Lutz, who has been caretaker of the school since Christmas. Mr. L. is going to take charge of the farm formerly occupied by Mr. L. Meyer on the ninth line.

Mr. Fred Hilker has taken a position with Mr. W. Wright.

Miss Nottie Hilker was visiting in Linwood last week.

A large number of logs are being brought to town. Both saw-mills have a large supply on hand.

Mr. J. Bisch's little boy has been quite sick with bronchitis but is a little better now.

Miss Mabel Carrochan, who was suffering with rheumatism, is improving.

Mr. J. W. McKinley is thinking of going out west this spring.

Rev. Mr. Sharp preached in the Presbyterian church last Sunday night.

Two weeks ago two loads left Linwood for Elmira to attend the revival services held there by the Misses Hall. One load was nearly lost at Wallenstein. The other load was very much shook up by the rough roads. One young lady's fur cape was very badly rubbed on the right side. Any good hair vigor recipes will be in order.

Mr. R. J. Currie left Linwood on Tuesday for Atwood. Mr. Currie has been selling stock for the Western Portland Cement Company with great success.

The review in the Methodist church Sunday School was taken by Rev. Mr. Shurpe and Mr. Hamilton and Miss B. Crowe. Mr. Edmunds was prevented from taking part in the review by a severe cold.

Crows, robins, sparrows and bluebirds promise that Spring will soon be here. May it come as quickly as possible.

HAWKESVILLE

March 29th, 1904.

Parties seem to be the order of the day. A large number of young folks here and some of the neighboring friends spent a splendid evening at Mr. Sid Snyder's as a surprise party for the boys, John and Ed, previous to their leaving for the west. On Wednesday night the young folks from here spent the evening at Mr. Alex Peterson's. A very pleasant evening was spent at both places.

Miss Annette Sholly spent a week under the parental roof.

Mrs. Geo. McAllister is at present at Hawkesville.

As a result of the ice jam on the Conestoga the road between the three bridges near the mill was badly blocked and no team could cross for three days. The road was cleared of ice this morning but the jam above the dam has not come down yet.

The saw mill and grist mill have both shut down on account of high water.

An old gentleman 82 years of age walked from St. Jacobs to his home here, a distance of five miles, the other day. Not so bad, that.

HUBERSVILLE.

Robins—since last week.

Mrs. Alf Hewitt is recovering from her recent illness.

Mr. Sam'l Miller has sold his fine driver at a high figure.

Mr. and Mrs. Borlet spent Sunday at Mr. Seifert's.

Promotion exams last week in our school.

A RICH DISTRICT

Mr. J. P. Jaffray, who was sent to Wellesley, Wilmot, and North Easthope to speak at the electric railway meetings recently, gives the following description of this section in his newspaper, the Galt Reporter:

The other day when the writer was a guest at Mayer's Hotel, Wellesley, he counted no less than twenty-three auction sale bills strung along the walls. Making a few inquiries he ascertained that quite a number of farmers in that district are retiring to the towns and that they are having no difficulty in disposing of their real estate holdings. A remarkable thing about the farmers referred to is the amount of money they have accumulated in their operations. It was pointed out that this one, who was about to remove to Berlin, was worth about $50,000—and he was not an old man, either. Another, who was also going to the same town, was declared rich for a farmer. Few were worth less than $10,000, while the average was nearer 20,000.

Those Wellesley section farmers are tilling rich soil that has for generations been well cared for. Farm after farm may be passed there without seeing substantial houses or barns. The contrary is the case, everything about their farms indicating prosperity and modern methods in their daily work. Some beautiful stretches of woodland are to be seen but the axe is telling of them and if the owners keep on felling the trees much longer there will be wood famines up there before the close of the present decade. Wellesley is a large contributor to the live stock market in this Province and from this branch of the business the farmers, according to all accounts, are realizing good profits. The manner in which farms in Wellesley are snatched up by buyers would indicate a popularity among agriculturalists based on solid worth. When the Electric Railway which was last year extended from Preston to Berlin is pushed through Wellesley the coming summer, farming operations up there should pay better than ever.

PETERSBURG.

Mrs. Lawrence Hawk had the misfortune of dislocating her shoulder last Saturday. On the way to Berlin the sleigh upset with the above result. They had eleven dozens of eggs in the sleigh and they were all broken but four.

Tibet Monasteries.
Monasteries of the lamas in Tibet are always perched on the top or steep sides of a hill. They are built in stages, connected by abrupt passages and stairs guarded by Tibetan mastiffs. These dogs are almost as high as a donkey and are so fierce that it goes hard with a stranger who attempts to enter without an attendant lama.

To Clean Diamonds.
To clean diamonds wash them in a lather of soap with a soft brush. With cold water wash off the lather and polish with camellia leather dipped in eau de Cologne.

Rings.
In older times rings were worn by monarchs and rulers alone, but as civilization advanced and women were more chivalrously regarded the ring was given first as the token of high dignity bestowed upon her in the marriage ceremony.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Berlin is at a loss as to the disposal of its sewage. They settle that question easily in Guelph by giving it to their newspapers to throw at each other.

"The residents of Milverton and a city sympathize with the Russians at Port Arthur—they know what it is to be bottled up."—Sun.

Use workmen, boys, and girls and bear it a little longer; you'll get it by the barrel again when your railroad opens in the spring.

"Ye editor of this journal saw a robin on Friday, March 11th. It is to be hoped he has survived all the weather since that date."—Plattsville Echo.

It was a Robin-son he saw. The editor looked in his mirror.

Judging by the number of applications before parliament for charters it is evident that Ontario is to have a network of electric railways in a very few years. The change in the methods of conducting the business of farming and the widening of the market for farm produce is making the necessity for closer shipping facilities apparent. This demand can be best satisfied by these local electric traction systems. These railways are all of the uniform standard gauge so that the necessity for breaking bulk when they reach the steam railways will be obviated and the products can thus be carried almost from the farmer's door to the seaboard without any cost for trans-shipment. Any traction proposition which will give the Canadian agriculturist advantages of competition in the great markets ought to be warmly welcomed. But the Government should be careful in the granting of these charters so that the roads are built at once instead of allowing these charters to be held for speculation.

About all the news of the Japan Russia war which reaches this continent one day is contradicted the next, so that when a reader turns to the war news in his paper he can generally depend upon getting mis-information. It is a good deal like a dog-fight in a fence corner with the owners and the great powers as the only actual spectators to see what is really going on. It doesn't matter much however so long as the spectators don't get mixed up in the fight.

The village of Plattsville is furnishing an object lesson now which many Ontario villages could study with profit. That village was distinguished with fire protection in the shape of an uncarded hand engine. The other day the main factory in the village caught fire and was entirely destroyed, and now the proprietors of the factory are deciding to rebuild, but not in Plattsville, because the offers of better fire protection and shipping facilities made by nearby larger towns are more tempting. Plattsville simply followed upon the well beaten track of dozens of other Canadian villages in neglecting fire protection so as to keep down taxation, with the result that it now stands to lose an industry which gave employment to over half a hundred of its residents. The Leaf does not wish to be considered an alarmist, neither will it shrink from the duty it has to perform as a public journal. The fact is that Wellesley village, with all its business enterprise, has so far ignored the important matter of fire protection although it has opportunity for putting in a splendid water pressure system at a nominal cost is superior. It is estimated by competent engineers that at an outside cost of $3,000 pressure mains could be laid in Wellesley which would amply cover the entire village. And more than that, the power could be applied at a moment's notice without the cost of a caretaker or power house. Wellesley, like Plattsville, has much to lose in case of fire disaster, and in view of the bright prospects now before the village this vital question should no longer be neglected.

The townships of Collett, Morris and East Wawanosh, in the village of Blyth will shortly vote on bonuses to the Guelph-Goderich railway. They are having a warm time of it, too, judging by the Blyth Standard, which says the "antis" accuse the promoters of having a bag of C. P. R. boodle for use in the campaign. The Standard indignantly denies this and stamps it as a slander. The voting will take place about April 15th.

The Canadian Press Association will enjoy an excursion to the St. Louis Exhibition in May.

Strange Logic of Summary.
Cases of forgetfulness on matters of interest are on record. While Dr. Priestley was preparing his work entitled "Harmony of the Gospels" he had taken great pains to inform himself on a subject which had been under discussion relative to the Jewish Passover. He wrote out the result of his researches and laid the paper away. His attention and time being taken with something else, some little time elapsed before the subject occurred to his mind again. Then the same time and pains were given to the subject that had been given to it before, and the results were again put on paper and laid aside. So completely had he forgotten that he had copied the same paragraphs and refections before that it was only when he had found the papers on which he had transcribed them that it was recalled to his recollection. This same author had frequently read his own published writings and did not recognize them.

An Expert.
Professor—If a person in good health, but who imagined himself sick, should send for you, what would you do?

Medical Student—Give him something to make him sick and then administer an antidote.

Professor—Don't waste any more time here. Hang out your shingle.

Siamese Tobacco.
The best tobacco in Siam is grown at Fetchabun. It is planted in open fields near the towns after the floods in September or October, and the first crop, or tips, which is considered the best quality, is gathered about February and the last about the beginning of May. The very best quality cannot be purchased, as it is reserved for the special use of the king and sent down to Bangkok, where it is smoked in the palace and distributed to the chief officers of state.

Cemetery Monuments.
What is more sadly comic or incongruous than the imposing medley of stone and marble in a great cemetery? The towering columns loom over the resting place of such small citizens. The "dove of peace" ululants where they would never have brooded of its free will. The guardian angel bends over the vizen's tomb, while mediocre bits of slate denote the graves of many saintly and gifted pilgrims.

A Chaucerical Wait.
A laborer applied to the foreman at some building's workshop for a job. "Can you do anything for a poor fellow at all in the shape of work?"

Foreman—Oh her nothin' the day. Com back agen. There is a drunken carpenter workin' on the top, and O' me waldin' 'vevy mint till he falls and gits killed.

Doing Him Justice.
The Heiress—You seem to have no objection to him, papa, except that he has no money.

Papa—No, and I'll even admit that he's trying hard to get some.

WAYS OF WINGED WOERS.

Incidents illustrating the Comical Side of Bird Life.

Wooling time brings to the front the comical side of bird life, and methods are as varied among our feathered neighbors as among ourselves. The extremes of dignified courtship and disreputable scurrilousness were shown by two well known birds, when the presence of a rival intensified affairs.

Two purple finches, suitors for the favor of the same sparrow-like maiden, placed themselves on each side about a foot from her and offered a musical contest. First one burst in capricious song, flying up into the "starchers" stuffed out and snowy breast. "woy shoulders more lovely than e... the sole finished, he dropped back t... perch and politely waited, while a rival poured out his madrigal. This alternate display continued several minutes, and apparently the umpire found it hard to choose, for she evaded decision by taking flight—both suitors following.

Different was the method of two orchard orioles, one in the immature plumage of the second year, the other in the full glory of maturity. This was a wrangle, accompanied by scolding and avian vituperation from beginning to end. If the theory of selection by fine dress be true, decision should have been easy, but after a whole day's trial the fair one ended it by a truly feminine scorn of theories, clopping with her plainer suitor, leaving the gorgeous elder to console himself with another bride—which he did before the sun went down.—Collier's Weekly.

War.
There is, besides a pleasure in order, a very real fear of disorder. A mob, a fire or a runaway horse arouses a sensation of terror in the spectator quite apart from their potentiality of harm to himself. Mere force is not, as is supposed, the last argument of man. A civilized war would have more terrors for the stockjobber than the cottager were it not for the threat of un-governed force well behind the punctilio of Christian fighting. We are never quite certain of an army. The disciplined brigade which nowadays captures the enemy's capital as tenderly as it would guard its own has, nevertheless, the same badges on its buttons as those which were fouled with the rape of San Sebastian and the murder of Bazellia. It may drown its manners at any moment in a torrent of blood and tears, and statesmen and others never forget the fact. War is but the crust of the volcano. Fires of unutterable horror burn beneath. The very perfection of the discipline which controls them is evidence of man's dread of disorder, for it is only fear that welds so strongly the furnace doors.—Blackwood's.

Diplomatic Pernacuity.
It is likely to be the case in America that as time goes on and our relations with foreign powers become more and more complicated and pressing permanence in consular and diplomatic office, based upon knowledge and proved fitness, will be the rule. This may mean that it will not be so common a practice to take scholars and authors from private life and place them suddenly in foreign consulates and missions. But even then it is likely that our literature will be enriched by the work of men who have become authors while enjoying the opportunity for new studies and broader observation afforded by the foreign service of their country, so that if hitherto literature has contributed to diplomacy hereafter we shall see our diplomacy contributing to our literature, as has not infrequently already been the case.—Century.

The Roman Lupetto.
The Roman Lupetto, which is almost indistinguishable from the so called Pomeranian dog, invariably tries to bury or cover over any food given him which he does not like. If fed on a loose drugget he will skilfully cover up the obnoxious food; if the carpet is matted down so that he cannot do this he goes through the exact process with his nose which would turn over the plate if it were movable. The Lupetto has a general contempt for any but meat diet, and, though he may condescend to accept of milk and milk out of deference to his owner, many of them would not make this concession, he is sure to go through the form of protest first.

Bird-skins Garments.
Eskimo women wear the most curious kind of underclothing, its peculiarity being that it is made of the skins of birds. These skins, before being sewed together, are chewed well by the women in order to make them soft. About a hundred skins are required to make a pair, and the labor of chewing the skins, which form the garments is quite enough to account for the massive, well developed jaws of Eskimo women.

The Victoria Cross

For Valor — In Ten Colors

Weekly Mail and Empire

For News — 24 Pages

THE picture shown is one dear to every man, woman, boy and girl, on account of its meaning—"The Victoria Cross," given for conspicuous bravery. If only the soil of South Africa could voice the deeds performed upon it, how many Victoria Crosses would have been found to have been earned by Canada's sons! It is hard in the heat of action to notice every act of valor, and therefore only those which take place under the eye of superiors of sufficient rank can be noted.

The picture shows one of such deeds. Two troopers are closely pressed by the enemy. The horse of one is hit. Under the withering fire, the man whose mount is unharmed halts, and, risking everything, waits to get his comrade safely mounted behind him and carry him back to the Canadian lines. It is a desperate deed, and one often performed but seldom noticed. When, however, such an act is seen, the reward to soldiers' hearts above every other is the result.

This picture is from the brush of Mr. W. R. Wollen, an artist famed for his war pictures, one whose work appears in all the leading illustrated periodicals of the Empire. It is a forcible subject from the hand of a strong man.
