MILIPS MOUSTACHE.

An Incident of the Great Fire in Toronto on April 10.

There is a story of a tiny blaze in the congregation of last Tuesday night which, though fraught with considerable consequences, has not yet been told. The blaze was not as large as would come from an average size match, but it kindled a certain nose, it handicapped the powerful expression of a certain looker-on for some months to come, and it caused the loss of a valuable lodger. To understand the actions of the principal actor in this drama of the night event, it should be told that Mr. McElip, we call him McElip for convenience sake—it should be known that Mr. McElip had a moustache which was the pride of his life. Besides being considered by himself, and perhaps one other, an ornament, it was a useful appendage. McElip was naturally a man of few words, and he used this moustache to give expression to his varying moods. Did he wish to appear impressive he pulled it gently over his nose, and in anger or indignation, indifference was portrayed by a twist, and content by a raising of the points. It was valuable, too, in another way, for when McElip wished to feel increased his moustache waxed the points.

McElip was employed with a Wellington street firm, and when he reached the office on Tuesday, amid the glare of burning buildings, the plate glass windows in front of the building had just exploded with the heat. The flames were already ramping in the rear of the building and ploughing their way towards the company's books, which had been left on the desks for an evening's work.

McElip never hesitated; he dashed through the broken window, in the smoke and the glare, and seized the priceless lodger. With the heavy book in his arms he turned to retreat, but just as he wheeled about a tongue of flame shot out, setting fire to that priceless moustache. McElip was a brave man, and could have faced a cannon blast undaunted; he would have lost his eyebrows or his scalp or every stitch of clothing on his back to save the moustache. The rushing water and the falling walls he dismissed with scarcely a thought, but this pride of his life, this companion of his joys and sorrows, this moustache—it was too much. He dropped the book and slipped his moustache. The next instant victory was turned to defeat; a burst of flame scorch him scurrying for his life. It was a double loss, for the precious moustache was beyond repair.—Star.

The German Carp.

An effort is to be made to destroy the German carp in Lake Ontario. It is to be hoped that the attempt will prove successful, says the Toronto News. It is a great coarse scavenger, which feeds on the spawn of better fish, and is useless for purpose of sport or food. Toronto also contains large numbers of carp, and to this cause is due in some measure the scarcity of game fish. Twenty years ago, before the Bay had become so greatly polluted with refuse, catfish and carp were plentiful in the bay. They were found in the deep portions of Ashbridge's, and rock and silver bass in almost any part of the harbor. Among the wharves, where the pollution began, catfish and carp were caught in large numbers, and may be taken yet. The destruction of these would not cause the angler grief. But the departure of the bass, the pickerel and the perch has deprived the Bay of one of its attractive features to a large class of citizens who enjoy the sport of the gentle bank water. The construction of a trunk sewer, and the gradual purification of the harbor, will doubtless restore the old conditions to the pleasure of the anglers who now have difficulty in finding a good fish this side of Muskoka.

Errors of Diet.

An insurance man of my acquaintance ate hearty breakfasts with meat and coffee, a hurried lunch at noon, but also with meat, and a heavy dinner at night. He took no exercise, always rode between house and office, became fat and bloated, and his blood became so overloaded that he readily succumbed to disease at forty five. The wonder was that he lived so long. He was a type of the average well to do citizen. Like him, most of us eat too much, say a writer in Good Housekeeping. Diet should depend upon temperament so much so that a really successful diet of doors one requires more nutriment than at sedentary labor indoors. A gradual reduction in diet, even an occasional fast, will cure many ordinary ills. Add deep breathing, fresh air, body building exercises, plenty of sunshine, water inside and out, and a astonishing how much better one feels.

The Grand Trunk Pacific railway bill has been the centre of attraction in the Dominion House of late, getting hotter as the time drew near for the vote. The bill was finally carried by about the full voting strength of the Reform Party in the House. The opposition have criticized the bill severely and have found flaws which will make political hushings capital later on. The Reformers claim that the G. T. R. railway is now a necessity for western development, and that the bargain is a fair one; the Conservatives claim that the government is paying 1-10 of the cost of building the road and then making a present of it to the Grand Trunk. There are enough charges and counter charges to completely muddle the minds of "the people" while the M.P.'s have conscientiously worked out the question to suit their Party views.

The building of this second trans-Atlantic railway is great enough to lay before the people to get their opinion in a general election. It involves the spending of millions of dollars and "the people who pay should have a say before their money is voted away." But it is doubtful if this would make any difference in the end, for the M.P.'s who vote for Party in this matter are likely doing simply what the votes would do in case a general election came on over this question.

Past Canadian history shows that liberty to Party is a sort of fetish, especially in Ontario. It has principally been the turn-over in Quebec that has thrown out governments. To be intensely loyal to something or other seems to be a necessity to Canadians, and politicians have played on this trait with great personal success. In nothing else like in politics has this trait been developed so that whether or no the G.T.P. bill goes through without the assent of an election plebiscite, or whether a C.P.R. bill is carried with a sweep of the electorate the result is generally the same: a big railway, a bigger debt on the people, and a few more millionaires. But it's all right if the people's favorite Party says so. That's where loyalty comes in.

Flavour, in last Saturday's Mail and Empire hits off a good joke on the soloist who likes to sing in a foreign language which he does not understand. This soloist was induced to sing a Japanese song, to the tune of the British national anthem, at a post-gradual gathering. He arose and sang the following poetical fact which was heartily applauded:

O wa tu fu Lyam;
A fu Lyam

There are several bridges in Wellesley township which require immediate attention, and the repairing or renewing of which will involve a large outlay of money. It will cost the ratepayers just as much—likely more—to build them one at a time as to let the contracts and have the necessary work done in modern and permanent style. Some of these bridges, like the one just north of the school in this village, require immediate attention, while others will need to be improved within a year or so. Should the cost of these bridges be each taken in one assessment as was the Riser bridge recently; or should the money for them be raised by by-law and spread over a long term of years; or should the large sum of cash now held by the township be subverted to the purpose of building permanent bridges instead of dividing its interest money in little parcels among the schools. The Leaf will gladly print correspondence on this question.

last bunch were left. This misadventure occurred on July 10, 1902, in the old street railway barns on Front street, occupied at the time by P. McIntosh and Co. As is the almost inevitable rule, the men met their death under falling walls, and not by burning or suffocation, Adam Karr, David Seo, Walter Collard, Harry Clarke, and Fred G. Russell perished. This is a record, in a rough way, of Toronto's great and fatal fires. In the amount of property destroyed they sink into nothingness in the presence of the latest ruin.

THE LONG WINTER.

The Wild Geese Begotten by Manitoba To the West-Sea.

A Northern Manitoba correspondent wrote during the second week of April: "We get about two snow-storms every week this spring. Seeding will be much later than usual. I cannot see how anything can be done toward putting in the grain before the 20th or 25th of this month. Much water is on the ground, and this storm will delay working on the land for another week. The winter has been very severe on stock. I believe the number of farmers who have not lost more or less cattle or horses will be in the minority. Some have lost six, eight, and some even as many as twenty head, mostly. I think, for the want of fodder. The winter has been one of the longest and severest in the history of the country. Wild geese, meadow larks and crows made their appearance about ten days ago. Yesterday they were flying about in good style. Today they must be huddled up in some thick bluff or tangled glen suffering the consequences of too early an exodus from a warmer clime. I imagine in years to come some of them will be telling their grandchildren that in the spring of 1904 they migrated to Manitoba two weeks too soon."

To Encourage Good Architecture.

The cities of St. Petersburg and Paris have an interesting device for encouraging good architecture, buildings which are artistically constructed that they are regarded as ornaments of the city are exempt from taxation for a period of years. The profession of architect has a much higher standing in Paris than in Canadian cities. A high standard of qualification for the profession is enforced by the voluntary associations which control admission to its ranks. The Paris architect signs his building in a conspicuous place on the front, as an artist does his painting. Paris and other continental cities could teach us more in regard to the promotion of artistic building. Herein is one regard in which we may learn from the old world.

Toronto Fire Salvage Sale

IMMENSE PURCHASE OF DRY GOODS.

The following is an exact copy of an invoice of goods purchased by me at the auction sale, by Suckling & Co., on the 19th and 20th of May.

The goods were from the W. R. Brock Co., and are largely staples, as you see, and were saved from the fire by being flooded, many of them being untouched by the flames.

The Insurance Companies owned the goods, having paid the claim in full, and they ordered a speedy turning of the goods into cash.

Twenty-five to thirty buyers were present and the piles of goods went off with a zip.

You had to look sharp, think quickly, and decide promptly to keep in the race for cheap goods. I proved to be one of the very largest buyers. At the regular wholesale price, the goods I bought should amount to about Twenty Thousand Dollars.

Many of the goods are badly burnt, more or less soiled, many are practically none the worse.

We have been spending the week past in classifying in the Skating Rink, and drying them inside and on the adjoining field.

It was the biggest washing ever dried in Stratford.

We have rented a Store IN THE MAYNE BLOCK, next door to Heppler Bros. City Hotel, on Market Square, opposite the Vegetable tables.

Mr. Allendorf will have charge, assisted by Mr. J. C. Struthers and others.

I need hardly say that I bought them at such prices as will secure to you unheard-of bargains, which will, doubtless necessitate the locking of the doors at times.

The Union church services have been withdrawn for next Sabbath. Rev. Mr. Draper being absent at Conference.
Parties who have bottles and keys belonging to them will please return them without delay or they will be charged. PETER GLESE.
The Arcade, Stratford, is telling the people of this section about some great bargains secured in the recent Toronto fire sales. Read their large adv. in another column.
Rev. Mr. Lochner's twin babies are dangerously ill with pneumonia. LATER—One of the twins, Arnold, died at 8 o'clock this (Thursday) morning. Funeral on Sunday at 2 o'clock, p. m.
A fine lot of about fifty black haws have this week been transported from the Bamberg to the Wellesley pond for breeding purposes. Fishers who may catch these fish are requested to replace them in the pond at once.
The joint annual meeting of the North Waterloo Farmer's Institute and the North Waterloo Women's Institute will be held in the Opera House, Wellesley, on Monday, June 13th, beginning at 2 o'clock, p. m. Delegates will be present to address the meeting. Lunch will be provided for all members who attend the afternoon meeting. An evening session will also be held, to which all are cordially invited.
There was a fine run of carp in Zehr's swall the other morning. Fully 300 fish, many of them apparently being over ten pounds in weight were in the low water. A hunt was at once organized and four or five were captured. The carp is not a popular table fish here. Some of the disgusted epicures are giving out the following recipe as the most palatable mode to prepare them as an edible: First catch your carp; then cover it thickly with well-say mud, but that isn't the ingredient named—bake thoroughly, then take the carp out of its covering and throw it away. Then eat the mud.

The Zehr bridge is hopelessly worn out and will require to be replaced this year. The consensus of opinion on the spot was that a cement arch would be the most suitable for that point. The township council meets at Crosshill next Monday when action will be taken in the matter. The bridge at the saw mill was also visited, and it was found to be still in good condition.
THE EDITOR'S JOB.
Editor Maple Leaf.—What is the matter that you have not yet drawn attention to the cows running at large? Don't you know that there is a by-law to prohibit? Have you noticed any horses running at large while the children were going to school? Hey, editor, we're looking for you to wake the authorities up in these matters.—A SUBSCRIBER.
