DISTRICT NOTES.

The Stratford junior backey team ras snow-bound at Chesley for sev-ral days this week.

On Tuesday morning the express train had two accidents between Stratford and Berlin. At Shakes-peare one of the drive wheels broke from the intense cold. A new ga-gine was secured but at Petersburg. the front wheels of the baggage car jumped the truck at a high embank ment and the entire train had a very narrow escape.

Joseph Jellis, a retired farmer living at Brantford, hanged himself on Saturday. He was 70 years of age.

Friends of Mr. Valentine Stock. ex-M. P.P., of South Porth. presented him with a handsome chair. Having lest his parliament-ary chair, they determined to find him a seat.

The decision of Police Magistrate Saunders, of Guelph, in the case against Tindall Holliday, that a brewer cannot give liquor to his employes in his warehouse, has been affirmed by Judge Chadwick.

A couple of prisoners broke out of the Brantford jail on Tuesday and escaped. They were captured yesterday a few miles out of town with their hands, feet and cars frozen.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Writs have been assued for the e-election of Premier Whitney's re-election of new Cabinet Ministers. The nom inations have been set for Feb. 21 and the elections one week later. It is expected that these Ministers will all be returned by acclamation has been enstomary in such

The Berlin beet sugar factory has already assurances of an extra heavy business next year. high price of sugar and the encour aging prices the farmers have re-ocived has had the effect of inducing farmers at long distances from the factory to grow beets, so that the total acreage next year promis-es to be far larger than any previ-ous year in the factory's history. A trolley line through Wellesley township would add nearly a month's business to the factory

In an article stating that the Carries township council has been us able to secure assessors at the salary offered, the Mildmay Ga-zette makes, the following pertinent remarks anent the working of the new Ontario Assessment Act: "The malary is declared by all who have studied the law to be entirely too small for the work to be done The work is not only greatly in creased, but it is hard to under-stand how to apply the law, and in many ways there is more red tape than common sense displayed in the amendmends. Personal property is no longer to be assessed, and instead a buriness tax is to be imposed, not occording to the amount of busine done, but according to the value of the building in which the business is transacted. This will cut off two thirds of the old assessment of merchants' stock of goods. New asse ments are introduced. Physicians, conveyancers, dettists, veterinary surgeons, hotelkeepers, manufacturers, brewers, photographers, etc., all have to be assessed according to the value of the building and land in which their work is done, and not according to the volume of busi not according to the volume of busi-mess transacted. Then real proper-ty is to be assessed so as to show the value of land without buildings and also value of land with the buildings. What purpose this will serve is hard to understand. The assessed value of land with the buildings on it, is enough for all practical purposes, and is much easier to get at. If the Legislature wants to find out the value of buildings on farm lands, for statistical purposes, buildings should be as-sessed for as nearly cost price as possible, but why should a farmer's buildings be assessed for taxation purposes alone? The true way to assess farm lands is to assess them near their se ling price as possible Any one conversant with such matters knows that an average 100 acre term may have buildings that cost as much as $3000, and such buildings will not add to the selling price of the farm one hulf what they cost, and in many cases no one third of cost, then what value or benefit can accure to any one by separating the value of the land and buildings in making an assessment It is to be hoped that the new goverment will turn out better legisle. tion in the line of Assessment Acts for the present act is a puzzle and a farce in many ways.

The United States government has introduced a tariff policy. known as the "drawback," by known as the "drawnaux, by which they claim they will capture the markets of the world. ports. The Canadian manufactur or naturally is alarmed at this measure which threatens his existence, and the Dominion government will be urged to protect its industries by proclaiming an export duty upon wheat, pulpwood, and other raw material which the U. S. manufactures require almost exclusively from Canada. As the Canadian producer, manufacturer and consumer all have different and consumer all have different standpoints from which to view this matter there will naturally a clashing of opinion, but the wel-fare of the Dominion as a whole should be paramount. The northwest wheat raiser should not be considered at the expense of the Ontario manufacturer, nor vice versa; there should be a medium which would give a fair measure of justice to all. The steel rail indus-try has shown what Canada can do terial and a similar rule applied to our own natural wood, grains and ores would give a wonderful impetps to the industries and growth of the Domini n
