Mr. Nurse had been plowing all day and in the evening had attended to his horses as usual and was about to retire at about him o'clock, when when the barn was found to be a mass of fames. Nothing was saved. The barn contained about fifty tons of hay, nearly 2000 bushes of grain, all his agricultural implements and three valuable horses. Mr. Nurse's till to warde dorses. bome Seasonable Advice

Some Seasonable Advice. It may be a piece of superfluous advice to urge people at this season of the year to lay in a supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost sure to be needed before winter is over, and much more prompt and satisfactory results are obtained when taken as soon as a cold is centracted and before it has become settles in the system, which has only be done by keeping the energy at hand. A Judicious Inquiry.

A well known traveling man who visits the drug trade says he has often heard druggist inquire of eastoners who asked for cough medicine, whether it was wanted for a child or an adult, and if for a child they almost invariably recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remark.

The reason for this is that they know there is no danger from it and that it always curos. There is not the least danger in giving it, and for coughs, colds and croup it is unsurpassed. For sale by A. Jannders, druggist, Wellesley.

Hightenpe.

For external application the nightcap is rarely seen. It is first mentioned during the time of the Tudors. Is the inventory of Henry VIII.'s wardrobe we come across the following item: "A nightenpe of black velvet embruidered." No wonder, with such gearing, that as Shakespeare suggests,
"Uneasy rests the head that wears a crown." Poor old Blabop Latimer was and content with one nightenp. For is his "Book of Martyrs" describes him
as follows: "He held his hant in his hand, baving a handkerchief on his head and upon it a nightenp or two and a great cap, such as townsmes nee, with broad Sapa to button under his chin." They evidently believed in keeping their heads warm in those days.—Health.

"Te Wellesley Maple Leaf says: The Herald's dream of says: The Herald's dream of several electric feeders at Strateone think that Col. Sellers had stopped out of Mark Twain's Gilded Ago and taken a position on the Herald's ellorial staff.

"The Herald is pozzled at so learned a reference, but doubtless Bree Green is hinting at the selling power possessed by Herald advertisements. Some are one-Col. Sellers, and some are half-page Sellers, but they all Sell. The one-col ads we mark vend.

But it is hard to connect all this with electric railways.unless Brer. Green has taken to lisping as in childhood and means 'trail' when he says 'twain.' He might explain as there is great anxioly in the office pending the discovery of his meaning.'

Quite a number in Wellesley are Quite a number in Wellesley are in favor of having the village incorporated. The assessed value is just about sufficient to run the government of the village without increasing the tax rate. Home rule, it is claimed, will place Wellesley village in a much better position to grapple with local improvements which will soon become imporative.

We are pleased to notice the growing number of ratepayers who favor the raising of money by de-bentures to build the numerous cement arches, culverts and bridges which are now being paid for out of the current year's taxes. It is this heavy extra expenditure which keeps the township rate tax so high and which is forcing the Wellesley council to face a deficit this year that otherwise could have been avoided. The system of making improvements upon the highways which will last for a century with out further cost is a wine one, but collecting the entire cost for them out of one year's tax is burdensome and unfair, especially to the poorer ratepayers. The present system will not only keep taxes high for years to come, from the fact that so many culverts, bridges, etc., will soon have to be replaced, but the mncil will never know just how high to fix the rate in any year in order to balance their accounts.

The ratepayers should have an estimate laid before them of the permanent improvements which will ber equired in the next (may) five years, and the total amount voted by one by-law, the money to be borrowed on 20-year debentures, isborrowed on 20-year accessing as the work is done. Such a course would enable the township borrow its own to legitimately borrow its own Mun. Loan Fund money, thus practically saving interest.

Tavistock's scheme for incorpor ation appears to have dropped out of sight. Some of the more ardent Party politicians are remored to have become panicky over the fear that the village, if incorporated, will be put into the wrong election
