 EDITORIAL NOTES.

The spring rush to the new provinces in the West is now on and the immigration to that part of Canada promises this year to far surpass that of any previous one. At last Canada's time has come, and it is true, as some one has aptly put it, that "the twentieth century is for Canada."

The millions of acres of the finest agricultural land in the world that are inviting the settlers seeking for a higher and more abundant promise of life in another decade the producer in lands of enormous crops of the cereals and it will not be many years until Canada is leading the world in wheat production. As the West fills with population and wealth will increase and soon we shall find that beyond the Red River is found more than half the population of the Dominion. Our six millions of people will have grown to ten, and twelve, to twenty million and the twentieth century fifty millions will call Canada their home. As the North is the home of freedom and intelligence we can look forward with confidence to seeing in this country a nation that will fill the world by the noble qualities of her men and women as well as by her vast wealth and material power.

We fear that the Maple Leaf has its eyes too sternly set on that bogey, the automobilist. We are very much of the opinion that a "leading road" is for the benefit of the farmer. No representative of a town or village would support the movement were it intended only to serve a class more or less of pleasure and pleasure loving motorists. The improvement of country highways is essentially a business proposition, and as such the farmer with products should regard it. The business idea permeates the whole question. From the initial stage of the Provincial project down to the present legislative action has been based on the requirements in transportation.

Should the legislature would have set aside ten thousand dollars, let alone one million to modernize our highways according to plans approved by the Department of Public Works. No one will be disposed to quarrel with the proposition that the townships should have a voice in selecting the roads to be improved. But at a point township dominance in the development of plans should cease. Here the County should step in with construction work, with the instruments of finance, and later on with that control necessary to administer a good system of highways for a group of municipal palatates, not for a few units, on the patchwork plan.

Waterloo County is just a little backward in seeing things eye to eye with the Department of Public Works and Good Roads Commissioner Campbell. Yet with things looking none too bright for action in the direction desired the Reporter is in a hopeful mood. Perhaps the ravens of the township, who will enter the County Council next year under the new Act, will see how light and take the responsibility of co-operating with the towns and villages in an organized effort to put Waterloo among the progressive municipalities that have displayed good business sense in equipping themselves with good roads. —Galt Reporter, of March 16.

The Reporter seems willing that the townships shall have "a voice" in designating the roads, but their dominance should go no farther than that. And the county should then step in to build, control and draw the township's money to pay for the roads. If the Reporter is valuing the government's decision, then the permanent roads proposition belongs to the distant future, for the farmer thinks he is as capable of designating, constructing and controlling a permanent road as anyone else. If the townships are encouraged by the government to build permanent roads on what the Reporter is pleased to call the "patch work plan" all Ontario will, in a very short time, be "patch worked" with good roads which join each other and stretch the length and breadth of the Province.

A little Wellesley girl related the following dream the other morning: I dreamt papa gave me five cents and I held it tight in my hand and ran to Forler's to buy suckers. Just as I was getting them I woke up and was disappointed. I thought to myself "O, it's a dream; but I've got the money yet, anyway," and I opened my clenched hand only to find that the five-cent piece was a dream, too!

PERMANENT ROADS.

MR. BIRRO—Your comments on the good roads question are valuable. You omit the important point, however, in the question of road-making. The difficulty in the past has not been the lack of money which the government grant for good roads would seem to imply. The average municipality has during the past 20 years spent enough by Statute Labor and by contract to have at least all the leading roads permanently constructed. Why then with all this expenditure are our highways not better than they are? Our methods of road-making are at fault. There are three essentials in a good road.

First—Its shape—It must be rounded so that no water can lie on the surface; the advantage of this is very evident.

Second—Proper ditches at the side—not to hold the water but to carry it to a proper outlet.

Third, and not less important than others, a dry foundation for the roadbed. A proper surface cannot be had until the bottom is dry and firm, and the only way this condition can be secured is by drainage. A tile drain down center of road three feet from the surface, or better still a drain on each side, and spaced 8 to 12 feet apart, will give a dry bottom. We can continue for another twenty years repairing the surface, but until the bottom is attended to by draining, no better result can be obtained. Yours,

GOOD ROAD.

PREVENTION OF SMUT.

BY PROF W. LOCHHEAD.

Spring is approaching and farmers will soon be planting the seed for the season's crop. With some crop clean seed means good crop. It is important, therefore, to take a few simple precautions, especially when it is known that these precautions will save much money.

Now, smut is very prevalent in many oat and wheat fields, and the loss to the province by this disease alone amounts every year to two or three million dollars. Smutty oats and wheat are caused by planting seed oats and wheat that have smut spores attached to them. These spores are so small that it is impossible to see them on the seed with the naked eye.

Perhaps the simplest and most effective method that has been devised for killing these attached spores is to sprinkle the seed grain with a dilute solution of formalin, made by pouring half a pint of formalin into ten or twelve gallons of water. The formalin can be procured at almost any drug store for 25 cents. The seed grain should be spread out on a clean floor or wagon box, and the formalin solution sprinkled over it by means of a sprinkling can. The seed should be thoroughly shoveled over and be thoroughly mixed while it is being sprinkled so that every grain receives some of the solution. Ten gallons of solution will suffice for 20 or 25 bushels of grain.

When the grain is dry, it should be put up into clean bags to prevent the entrance of fresh spores of smut which are always floating in the air of barns.

If this method is carefully followed, no smut heads of grain will be found in the crop.
