The slowness of the railway con anies in dealing with the question of building a railway to the Wellesley section has its cause in the present great building activities of both the C. P. R. and G. T. R. The need of having this road, how ever, is becoming greater than ever and it might be well to build it by private enterprise. A line either to Baden or Waterloo would be remarkably free from engineering difficulties or grades and cuts, so that the cost per mile need scarcely be more than building a prairie section. With the bonuses which the section interested seems willing to give and the possibilities of bond ing the roadbed it should not be difficult to dispose of the stock ner essary to fully capitalize it. In deed the stock issued could be made very attractive, especially as it is arready assured that the road will be a very profitable one. There is good opening here for some enter prising promoter.

The fire protection committee of he Wellesley Board of Trade ithe Wellesley Board of Trade i-carefully working out the problem and will soon be ready to report. The special committee appointed to secure information has also about completed its work, so there will be some important discussions at the general meeting shortly to be held. held

Fiday, in reference to an article on the permanent roads question in last week's Maple Leaf, says:

"Recve Jaffray can scarcely be expected to do all that when a Road and Bridge Committee is empowered to make the necessary moves for the good of the county as a whole. But before he will let the matter dtop, as is now proposed by the committee referred to the gentleman in question will move a resolution having for its object Government assistance to villages and towns that build standard roadways and submit them to Government inspection. If the townships are not prepared to reform their methods they can be a scarcely refuse to give urban municipalities an opportunity to earn the Provincial bonus in macadamizing stretches of leading roads from corporation limits, say for one-half mile each. Pressure from the twoms and incorporated villages, exercised in a friendly spirit, will probably silve the County Road prablem. At least it will be worth trying."

The reporter but thinly disguises its disgust at the tame way the Road and Bridge committee of the County council fled from their scheme after going to the expense and trouble they did. Anda Berlindally hints that the committee
